

WRITING IN THE GRAVEYARD: Spooky-Creepy-Wicked Fun!

SUMMER WRITING CAMPS AT OAKLAND CEMETERY JUNE 29-JULY 3 & JULY 13-17

Kids who love to write and like the mystery and intrigue that a famous historic cemetery provides should jump at the chance to experience Oakland Cemetery's first-ever writing camps. This week will be filled with ghost stories, vampire legends, eerie music and many other forms of inspiration — such as writing while inside a totally cool mausoleum (and cool to beat the heat, too). Campers can also look forward to a cemetery scavenger hunt and special encounters with famous “spirits” of Oakland.

The camps are limited to 15 participants so that each youngster will receive individual attention. Included: stream-of-consciousness writing, free verse poetry, personal memories, and lots more. There will be plenty of lively exercises. Learn to add strong color and detail to your writing, delve into the power of observation, and focus on story “ingredients,” from characters and setting to plot twists and mood/atmosphere. The week and the creepy fun will culminate with a reception and “performance” of favorite works for family and friends.
